Paul@spcaribbean.ky

Paul has over 20 years' experience in litigation, insolvency and restructuring. He was called to the Bar of England and Wales in 2004 (non-practising) and the Cayman Islands Bar in 2012.

He was a recommended attorney by The Legal 500 having previously worked in one of the Cayman Islands leading dispute resolution teams.

He has broad experience in international commercial disputes including defence of regulatory actions, presenting and defending winding up petitions and prosecuting and defending claims in the funds and corporate industry.

In addition to providing legal services, Paul also has ongoing experience sitting on the boards of companies facing significant legal issues and plays an active role in deploying asset protection strategies which focus on corporate governance. He has established investment committees, investment guidelines, policies and procedures with best-in-class asset managers and has experience in US fixed income portfolio composition and financial modelling.

He has worked closely with boards and committees on investment management, accounting, governance and risk management to anticipate and put in place "best in class" policies and procedures and strategies to optimise company performance and strategy.

He frequently handles cases involving the States of New York, Delaware and Texas and has experience with the State of Wyoming.

Paul brings to a client situation a breadth and depth of knowledge in financial services including asset managers and funds. The core to his approach is to establish the most cost effective and efficient way to preserve, protect and enhance value for his clients.
